ENGINEERING COUNCIL

Dear Potential Sponsor:

The Engineering Council Awards Banquet is a relatively new effort by the University of Illinois Engineering Council to recognize students for their involvement and work in student organizations. The Engineering Council Awards Committee feels that the experience and knowledge students gain through projects and organizations outside of their coursework is critically important. This banquet is being held in order to make students and companies aware of that importance. Due to its role as the umbrella organization for most engineering student organizations, Engineering Council is in a unique position to aid in the recognition of involved students.

The Awards Banquet will be held in late March on the University of Illinois campus. The event will be attended by a single student from each of the student organizations that are part of Engineering Council. These outstanding students will be nominated by their fellow organization members as the most involved students of their respective organizations. In addition, professors representative of the disciplines of the various organizations will be invited.

We would like to give corporate sponsors that recruit from and support the University of Illinois the opportunity to aid in recognizing the talent and hard work of these students. We invite your company to sponsor the Engineering Council Awards Banquet as an opportunity for increased exposure among the student organizations involved with Engineering Council. The available sponsorship packages are outlined below.

“Orange Sponsor” – This company will be the Awards Banquet title sponsor. The sponsor will have space to display its products and/or set up a table to distribute further information about the company. They will have their name and logo on all awards, programs, and official publicity and will be able to display a company banner at the event. Additionally, the sponsor will be able to have four company representatives attend the event who will receive resume CD’s of all students being recognized.
